CPED Design

Carnegie Project on the Education Doctorate (CPED)

EAF utilizes the CPED model for its Ed.D. Program. The emphasis of the the model is to develop students' abilities to conduct research and scholarship in practice to solve real issues in education. It is a more relevant and rigorous approach for practitioners who want to serve as impactful leaders in Prek-12 settings. The CPED model has empowered our alumni to enact real change in their schools and districts.

To learn more about what sets a CPED-influenced Ed.D. program apart from traditional PreK-12 doctoral programs, visit CPEDinitiative.org

Requirements

The program requires 60 hours of course work beyond a masters degree followed by 15 hours of dissertation research.

Doctoral residency requirements are fulfilled during the program.
